The thoughts of a passionate dreamer and devoted wife and mama living in the messy middle of the world. Tuesday, March 5, 2011 I am not Alone I have done a lot of growing in my life. The moments when my life looked bleak and hopeless are few and far between. It's the moments of despair that leave me. And being that I am a positive thinker, the moments of joy and peace overshadow the moments of despair. But I have done a lot of growing in my life. The most important growth that I can remember was understanding the relationship between me and God. And, I think that understanding of the relationship between us has done a lot of my growing and it's my most important growth that I can remember. (Note: This is one of those blogs that I want to be told that I will be right. I don't want to be the one that is full of rambling thoughts. Don't break my hope! Right?!!!) For years I thought that my relationship with God was in control of all that was happening in my life. My life was a sure mess, and I was completely at His mercy. But I discovered something after that, and it was true. I realized that I am in control. And that's not the same as being in control of my life or circumstances. I am in control of my own behavior and the choices I make. But my circumstances have no control over me. Because God is in control of everything. He is in control of the constellations, He is in control of the rivers

Fondation Louis-Delluc

Fondation Louis-Delluc was a foundation created in 1853 to promote French internationalism. It is a member of the Institut français du patrimoine culturel. It was founded in 1853 with the purpose of supporting art and science. In 1937, in keeping with the mandates of the National Committee of Intellectual Cooperation with Foreign Countries and the International Office of the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the organisation was renamed Fondation Louis-Delluc-CNRS. In the same year, it was endowed with the former Eboulements-Maison Frances (or "Fondation Maison-Eboulements") building on the Boulevard de Magenta in the 13th arrondissement of Paris, as well as the Croizat collection of modern art. In 1961 it was renamed Fondation Louis-Delluc. Its mission was to support research, education, the development of current techniques in the humanities and the arts, as well as cultural exchange. When the foundation closed in 2003, its assets were transferred to the Louvre.
